8. On 25 November, the Infanterie Kaserne was occupied to capacity and all of its buildings fully lighted at night. Soldiers observed there were engaged in inside duty and driving practice. The garages and gun sheds were closed.
9. On 25 November, 100 soldiers from the joint billeting area of the Infanterie Kaserne and the Pionier Kaserne were played to the Rathenow-Hord railroad station and, with 400 other soldiers from the remaining barracks installations in Rathenow, were loaded in 15 boxcars which were hauled toward Albertsheim. Most of the troops observed were EM and NCOs with war decorations. They were unarmed and carried only hand baggage. The band subsequently returned to the Infanterie Kaserne. * Comment. [] is probably [] an administrative unit of the IV Arty Corps in Rathenow. As this [] has been [] observed as dispatcher and consignee of troop shipments and as [] mentions it as pertaining to a headquarters processing the discharges for the three Waldkasernen, it is conceivable that [] belongs to an agency at the Hq IV Arty Corps which has functions exceeding those of a mere administrative unit. 50X1-HUM

 Comment. This report [] confirm the 50X1-HUM
 Kraftfahrer Kaserne, the Pionier Kaserne and the Infanterie Kaserne as quartering components of the 6th Arty Div, and the Ziethen Kaserne as probably housing the Hq IV Arty Corps. Components of the 65th (?) Mort Brig have been carried to date in the Infanterie Kaserne, and components of the 10th (?) Gun Arty Brig in the Kraftfahrer Kaserne and the Pionier Kaserne. [] It remains 50X1-HUM undetermined whether the reported 152-mm guns were model 38 field howitzers or model 37 gm howitzers. In view of the T/O strengths of the brigades concerned, the strength estimates [] of paragraphs 1 through 5 of the present 50X1-HUM report are substantially too low, whereas the estimate of 7,000 troops in paragraph 10 is too high. However, in the three Waldkasernen, Rathenow, during the last months, weapons observed have included: about 50 x 122-mm and about 50 x 152-mm guns, most of them apparently howitzers; models 39 and 42x76.2-mm field guns; 14 x 57-mm AT guns; and 160-mm mortars. In view of these observations and the total strength estimate given in paragraph 10 of the present report, it appears possible that one additional howitzer artillery brigade may be stationed in Rathenow besides the two aforementioned brigades of the 6th Arty Div. The AT guns observed are believed to be organically assigned to these 50X1-HUM brigades.
